Edward J. Beckwith is nationally recognized in the legal and administrative specialties which concern establishing and guiding the operations of charitable and educational organizations, healthcare institutions and trade associations. His advice is often sought with respect to the maintenance of the tax-exempt status of such organizations and the tax aspects of contributions and other financial support programs.

Mr. Beckwith also advises affluent families with respect to the accumulation, management, and distribution of their personal wealth. These clients rely upon his extensive experience in several legal areas including business, tax and property law. A significant aspect of his practice involves the application of the tax laws to family and business financial arrangements, including the preparation of related documents to conserve and transfer wealth, the administration of such arrangements, and the representation of clients before legislative, judicial and regulatory branches of government at all levels.

Mr. Beckwith is active in the American and the District of Columbia Bar Associations, as well as the American Law Institute. He is a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation. He also is a Fellow and a Regent of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel where he has served as the State Chair in the District of Columbia as well as the Chair of the College's Philanthropy Study Committee and its Committee on Charitable Planning and Exempt Organizations.

He lectures throughout the United States and has written extensively, including articles and speeches for the American Law Institute/American Bar Association Committee on Continuing Professional Education and the Council on Foundations.

Mr. Beckwith is the Founder and Chair of the Advanced Estate Planning Institute sponsored annually by the
